DAUGHERTY URGES LARGER LAW FORCE

Increase Necessary, He Says, to Handle Augmented Work of Department

60,722 CASES LAST YEAR

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 7.—A new basic judicial organization, to meet the augmented work which has resulted from "the ever-increasing complexity of Government," was suggested by Attorney General Daugherty in his annual report, made public today. Noting that 60,722 criminal cases were begun in the last fiscal year, the report declared the point was being approached "where a revamping of the machinery used in this work is inevitable."

Adoption of some method by which the Government could retain attorneys who have special knowledge of Government matters in addition to legal training, was one of the several suggestions advanced by Mr. Daugherty. The recently enacted legislation providing additional judges should help the situation, he said, but probably will not entirely remedy it.

"The failure of local self-government in parts of the country," the report said, "results in the insistence of the citizens of those communities that the Federal Government take over the functions which the local Government has failed, and frequently in matters where there is concurrent jurisdiction between the State and Federal Government it is difficult to establish a policy as to the extent to which the Federal Government should take jurisdiction. This is particularly true of offenses arising under the Federal Reserve Act, the Narcotic Act, the Volstead Act and the Postal Frauds Act."

The existing procedure for the removal of a defendant to the jurisdiction where the trial was commenced is usually cumbersome and results in unjustified delay and injustice. Under such procedure the trial is frequently delayed from one to two years.

Alien Property Cases Difficult

An attempt was made in the report of the independent department to return or take possession of all property seized under the Trading With the Enemy Act in cases where the owners come within "the enabling section" of the act.

"The question in almost all of these cases," Mr. Daugherty reported, "is either title or citizenship. For instance, the Alien Property Custodian, who at present holds the property in question, which is extremely complicated, by reason of the rights of United States citizens, alleged to have been acquired subsequent to the war. Oftentimes the question becomes one of the validity of an assignment or the acquisition of title prior to the war, and in this connection it is exceedingly difficult at times to distinguish between the present ownership of a claimant and a simple claim of indebtessness, and it is then necessary to go into the history of the property in question. It has also been necessary to send representatives of the department to Europe to secure evidence from those familiar with certain cases."

The report made no comment on the railroad injunction case and merely noted the legal situation arising out of enforcement of the prohibition statutes outside the continental limits of the United States.

Rum Ships Seized

Since the eighteenth amendment of the Constitution and Title II of the National Prohibition Act became effective, it said, "smuggling vessels of American and foreign registry, carrying liquor from foreign ports to our shores, have swarmed along our seaboard, bringing liquor into the United States in violation of our laws." Eighteen vessels of foreign registry and sixteen of American registry, with their cargoes of liquors have been seized. No American-owned vessel can transport foreign liquors. Foreign registered vessels cannot transport beverages within American territorial waters. Of the eighteen foreign registered vessels seventeen were found trans-orting and smuggling liquor within the three-mile limit of our shores. The remaining eight foreign vessels, which were hovering off our shores beyond the three-mile limit, but within the four-league zone of our shore, and unloading their cargoes of foreign liquors to be brought ashore in violation of our statutes known as the hoisting law."

"Our government protest seizes of these vessels, thus cutting out foreign ships and smuggling liquor to our shores because international law does not recognize any hoisting net as valid outside the three-mile limit, except as they may be applicable to our own national laws."

One general reference also was made to litigation involving patents issued to the Hoch, Margolin and Chemical Corporation, with "American suits" having been filed, the report said, to determine title to these patents and to decide the ownership of the firms which have accumulated from past of patent rights.

Post-war espionage by informed foreign governments was hinted at in the report submitted by the department's Bureau of Intelligence.

Mr. Daugherty said work was being pursued on the war contract investigation of the department, and that action was being taken, as warranted, with the completion of the audit of each project.

RULE BROKEN FOR SARGENT

More Portraits by Noted American Hung in National Gallery

London, Dec. 7.—The National Gallery for the second time today imposed against induction of portraits of living persons yesterday in accepting under will of Asher Wertheimer nine portraits of his family painted by the famous American John S. Sargent.

The highest bid to go to the gallery through the death of Mr. Wertheimer's widow, whose executors the pictures had retained since the late lifetime.

The portrait of the artist, painted in 1888, has been described as "one of the greatest portraits in the world," the only modern picture which challenges the Velasquez portrait of Innocent X in the Doria Palace at Rome.

The other Sargent work, for which the rule against living subjects was broken by the gallery, is his portrait of Lord Ribblesdale, which went to the gallery in 1916.

PERSHING OFFERS PLEA FOR GREATER U. S. DEFENSE

Dawes Condemns Gov. Small for Release of Radical, W. B. Lloyd

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(By A. P.)—General John J. Pershing in two addresses here last night, metaphorically linked arms with Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes in a plea for a national awakening to the dangers from external aggression and the "horror from within." The two generals were the chief speakers at a patriotic dinner of the Association of Commerce, and a few minutes later General Pershing repeated a part of his address from a radio broadcasting station.

General Dawes spoke heatedly of the "skulking cowards and demagogues in once," but his language was unadorned by the adjectives which gained him the nickname, "Hell-and-Marin."

General Pershing took up discussion of the general defense.

"Some day war will come," he admitted, with pointing finger, "some day we will come and we must consider national defense."

Two resolutions, one introduced by General Dawes, were adopted by the meeting. General Dawes' resolution condemned Governor Small for release of William Bross Lloyd, wealthy radical and sixteen associates from the State prison. The other resolution called upon the Government to maintain a standing army of 150,000 men.

KU KLUX KLANSMEN RAID ALLEGED GAMBLING PLACES

Ten Automobiles of Hooded Members Break Up Games in Cresco

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 7.—Ten automobiles filled with Ku Klux Klan members visited Cresco last night, cleaned out two alleged gambling places, closing those engaged in cards in a wild race. The hooded members then posted a big sign in front of Jacob Bidick's store, "Gambling in this town must stop." After firing six shots from a hill overlooking the town, the Klansmen disappeared in their automobiles, with lights without lights.

Church members of Cresco have been demanding that gambling cease, but were as excited as others of the town over the Klan's summary way of stopping it.

Caldwell, who was forty-seven years of age, was appointed Minister to Persia by President Wilson in 1914 and served throughout both terms of the Wilson Administration.
